4. How can adult education and CTE collaborate together to meet our goals?
Why are Career Pathways Important?

In an economy where more than 80 percent of all jobs require some form of postsecondary education or training, expanding access to high quality workforce programs at community and technical colleges is increasingly critical to our nation’s continued competitiveness.

For many of these jobs — particularly the roughly 50 percent of jobs in the U.S. labor market that require more than a high school diploma, but not a four-year degree — degrees or certificate programs offered at community or technical colleges can provide the right skills and credentials to help workers and businesses succeed. But it’s not just a question of narrow technical training for narrow jobs. It’s a broad-based approach to education that culminates in degrees and certificates that are recognized and valued by employers.

WHAT IS CTE?

Career and Technical Education is—

• a sequence of courses that include rigorous academic content and relevant technical knowledge and skills that prepares secondary or postsecondary students for further education and careers in high-skill, high-wage, and in-demand occupations;

• applied learning that supports the development of academic knowledge, higher-order reasoning and problem-solving skills, work attitudes, employability skills, occupation-specific technical skills, and knowledge of all aspects of an industry;

• to the extent practicable, coordinated between secondary and postsecondary education programs through programs of study, which may include early college high school programs, dual credit, and other articulations; and

• may include career exploration as early as the middle grades.
Perkins V:

• requires curricular alignment between secondary and postsecondary institutions through the implementation of programs of study.

Program of study: a coordinated, nonduplicative sequence of academic and technical content at the secondary and postsecondary level that—

(A) incorporates challenging State academic standards;
(B) addresses both academic and technical knowledge and skills, including employability skills;
(C) is aligned with the needs of industries in the economy of the State, region, or local area;
(D) progresses in specificity;
(E) has multiple entry and exit points that incorporate credentialing; and
(F) culminates in the attainment of a recognized postsecondary credential.

• calls for programs to be aligned to the state, regional, and/or local labor markets

• Eligible agencies consult with stakeholders to develop State Determined Levels of Performance.

• All four years of targets included in state plan (reinforces strategic, long-term planning).

• States must continually make progress toward improving the performance of all CTE students, including subpopulations.
1.) Postsecondary Retention and Placement

The percentage of CTE concentrators who, during the second quarter after program completion, remain enrolled in postsecondary education, are in advanced training, transitioned to military service, volunteer service, or placed into employment.

2.) Earned Recognized Postsecondary Credential

The percentage of CTE concentrators who receive a recognized postsecondary credential during participation in or within one year of program completion.

• Colleges are required to disaggregate data by CTE programs and subpopulations (including special populations) to identify and quantify gaps in performance.
  ▪ This is in an effort to address barriers for students.

• Increased Transparency: data and performance shall be public facing.

• Emphasizes more support and success for underserved students or students with barriers.
Special Populations

*indicates new population identified in Perkins V COMMITMENT TO EQUITY

An effective and efficient career pathway will also commit to equity for all participants and potential participants and continuous improvement. To ensure that is possible, the system will:

• Collect, share, and use evidence to identify and eliminate barriers to participant access and success.

• Include shared qualitative and quantitative evaluation of participant outcomes, with a focus on equity of access and services across participant groups, to inform the improvement of all programs within the pathway as well as the pathway itself.

• Disaggregate participant-level data to identify inequities in performance among participant groups and improve the outcomes of different participant groups.

• Include shared qualitative and quantitative evaluation of effectiveness in serving employers (the business community) in order to inform strategies for improvement.
